INSTALLING THE TELEVISION

Installation Precautions

For Power over Coax, use only a power source from PDi suitable for use in a healthcare facility. The single coaxial cable on top of the TV is used to supply both low voltage AC or DC power (28VAC or 24VDC) and RF signal to the television,

Coax Cable Specifications

When using a central power supply, cable selection is crucial. Due to long coax cable runs encountered in hospital installations, coax cable employing a solid copper center conductor and copper shield is required. Cable run lengths MUST NOT exceed 150 feet. Required coaxial cable numbers include Alpha 9804C (non-plenum), Belden 9248 (non-Plenum), West Penn 806 (non-Plenum), or West Penn 25806 (Plenum), which have been tested with coax-powered TVs.

Arm Mounting

This television is designed to attach to a PDi suspension arm adjusted to support twelve pounds.

Arm Recoil Hazard: The safety brake pin must remain in the SAFETY BRAKE PIN HOLE whenever the television is removed from the arm or when the arm is removed from the wall bracket to prevent INJURY from the arm springing open. Note: Contact PDi for additional information on arm compatibility and cable requirements.

DIRECT ENTRY KEYPAD

You can use the glass keypad for power, volume, mute, closed captions, channel, and direct channel entry.

PROGRAMMING MENUS AND SETUP

Note: The following instructions assume you have a programming remote, have correctly mounted the TV, and connected a coax cable that provides both power and RF signal. The PDi programming remote Part Number PD108-420 must be ordered separately.

If the blue SETUP screen goes blank while you are changing any settings, simply press SETUP on the PD108-420 remote.

Disabled is like a mechanical key lock – when in Disabled service level, the TV can be turned OFF and ON, but cannot be used for viewing. A standard message appears on a black screen.

Free lets patients watch hospital education and information channels without renting the TV. The channels containing programming for no charge are typically programmed into this level of service. This is the factory default setting for service level.

Basic service typically allows additional channels beyond those offered in the FREE level.

Premium is the highest Service Level with typically the most channels available for viewing.

1. Press the SETUP button on the remote to display the on-screen SETUP menu.
